ASSESSMENT ROLL KALADAR 1900

Transcribed by Archives Volunteer, Anna Doyle.

This Kaladar assessment roll for the year 1900 documents the transition between a time when Kaladar was forest, occupied primarily by first nations hunters and occasional winter lumber camps. During the 1890's, the gradual opening of the Addington Road attracted a few hardy farming families, including Loyalist great-grandchildren. These families were mostly scattered in pockets of valley land along the route of the settlement road. By the turn of the last century, however, the railway through the south of the township assisted further settlement, and a considerable increase in population occurred. In particular, French Canadians from the Gatineau region of Quebec and Germans fleeing European wars and upheavals began to invest labour and money.

The original document is not in alphabetical order and inconsistency in spelling was therefore less apparent.

The term "range" may refer to areas further from the settlement road, which had at that time only a rudimentary survey.

In the 19th century, only owners of real property could vote. By 1900, the franchise had been extended to "farmer's sons". Widows who had inherited property in their own right could vote in municipal elections.

Citation should read, "Transcription of an Assessment Roll used by the Township of Kaladar and Anglesea, 1900, original now in the Lennox and Addington County Museum and Archives, Napanee".
